Innovation and respectful care for women's health

Dr Marie-Charlotte Bouësseau

SERVICE DELIVERY & SAFETY

World Health Organization

"Articulating ethical and evidence-based policy options"

WHO core function

SERVICE DELIVERY & SAFETY

Respect for individuals needs and expectations

Respect for communities

People centered care

World Health Organization

RESPECT FOR INDIVIDUALS

- Respect for the dignity

  - Autonomy / free informed decisions

  - Privacy – Confidentiality of personal data

  - Protection of vulnerable persons

- Optimization of risk/benefit / all health interventions (beneficence - non maleficence)

- Justice

  - Equity in access to care and treatment

  - Absence of discrimination (gender, age, ethnicity, etc.)

RESPECT FOR COMMUNITIES

Health systems should be based on

- Fair processes

- Solidarity mechanisms

- Good governance

  - ✓ rule of law

  - ✓ transparency

  - ✓ responsiveness

  - ✓ consensus oriented

  - ✓ efficiency

  - ✓ accountability

  - ✓ inclusiveness

World Health Organization

The implementation of new technologies for health requires an ethical framework to ensure respectful care for the persons and their communities